

MAREN GIRLS IN PRATT SWEATERS

High Links at Brooklyn Theatre May Lead to Expulsions from the Staid and Sedate Old Institute.

FACULTY SHARPENS ITS SNICKERSEE.

When the Edge Is Just Right, Zip! It Will Go, and Student Heads Will Tumble Forthwith into the Basket.

Two sweaters with the Pratt Institute hems gleaming from the frontal side and worn by capering chorus girls are likely to prove tragedies in the lives of a number of students who, on celebration bent, made more than merry at the United Theatre in Brooklyn last Friday night. The austere scientists and engineers in the faculty of the institute have put their wise heads together, and when their deliberations are finished may go a number of student heads.

Those two sweaters have stirred the college to its rocks—first when they appeared on the forms of the chorus girls on Friday night and afterward when the faculty learned of "the disgrace to an institution known the world over for its dignified and academic conduct."

With some twenty-five students in the first four rows of the orchestra, and the harem of the Sultan of Bo dancing, singing, kicking and prouetting on the stage, the audience had a shock that was not on the programme. The students took a fancy to the young ladies back of the footlights. A communion of winks and sotto-voce conversation was in order, and after the show was well under way, there was much noise and conviviality on the part of the students of the borough that has no Tenderloin.

Vacation May Be Permanent. Several of the students that took part in the Friday night celebration have already felt the sting of the faculty's lash. They are now at home awaiting the results of the investigation. A short vacation, some of the professors say, will end the most disastrous show since the college was founded.

The rumor that has gone around the college halls is that the expulsions will follow in such quick order that the celebration of several years is now ready to be launched. Two of the seventy-five men among those present at the show last Friday night have already been expelled from the faculty. They kept a good mouth and the faculty has been forced to get the information from other sources.

The faculty feels aggrieved. The Pratt Institute, known all over the land as an especially ordered for serious-minded men, has been exploited on a musical stage. Oh, if those sweaters were not used! There is the head and front of the offense. The dignity of the professorial mind has been trifled with to such an extent that it can only be smoothed by the degradation of the offenders. And that much has been determined.

Off with Their Heads. It is not at all likely that the faculty will call the harem of the Sultan of Bo into the academic court. They will not be put upon the carpet. No such measure is contemplated by the Pratt Institute teachers. They have heard enough of that performance at the United Theatre. What they are looking for particularly are the men who put the sweaters in course of transit from the institute grounds to the theatre. Then, zip! Off with their heads.

There are some students in Brooklyn whose heads are not living neatly on dormitory pillows these nights. It is not at all likely that the faculty will call the harem of the Sultan of Bo into the academic court. They will not be put upon the carpet. No such measure is contemplated by the Pratt Institute teachers. They have heard enough of that performance at the United Theatre. What they are looking for particularly are the men who put the sweaters in course of transit from the institute grounds to the theatre. Then, zip! Off with their heads.

TAKEN FROM BED ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Young Frank Davis, of South Nyack, Accused of Waylaying and Beating Station Agent Henry R. Hope.

NYACK, N. Y., Nov. 13.—A sensation was caused here this morning when it became known that last night Frank Davis, of South Nyack, was taken from his bed by the police and placed under arrest on suspicion of having committed the murderous assault and robbery on station agent H. R. Hope Monday night.

Davis is only twenty years old, and is a son of a respected family, his father being in the employ of the Erie Railroad. He has been known as a wild youth, and has been in numerous escapades.

Upon his arrest the young man was taken before Justice W. W. Wyward and every effort was made to get him to confess. He maintained his innocence and stoutly denied any knowledge of the crime.

The evidence against Davis is circumstantial. Two of his chums testified that last winter, for pecuniary reasons, they plotted with him to waylay and rob the station agent. The three followed him one night, but their nerve failed them.

Davis recently made the remark that he was going to do a trick that would bring him a hundred dollars, and then he would get out of town. Monday night he left Kessler's livery stable, where he is employed, in time to have waylaid the station agent.

He was committed to jail for further examination. The police are searching for further evidence against him. His condition is not so good to-day. He has a high fever.

Last night at a meeting of the citizens of South Nyack a reward of $100 was offered for the arrest of his assailant.

KINGS GO SHOOTING.

English and Italian Rulers Have Day of Gunning.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—King Victor Emmanuel and King Edward spent the morning shooting pheasants in the grounds at Windsor. Queen Helena and Queen Alexandra visited Queen Victoria's tomb at Frogmore, on which Queen Helena deposited a wreath. There will be 100 guests at the state banquet to-night in St. George's Hall, where the King, Queen and Queen Alexandra will be seated. King Edward and King George will be seated on either side.

Silk Waists.

Every glance at the Silk Waists reveals a new beauty. The stock is in rich bloom—many of the delicate, elegant creations are strikingly flower-like in their exquisite grace and color. The practical side of these things hinges on prices. We never get away from our standard. No matter how fine and exclusive the material, style and workmanship, you may be sure that the regular Macy basis controls. Seven ideal proofs:

$4.79—Waists, made of peau de cygne, tucked and hemstitched, sleeves tucked, fancy stock collar.

$6.74—Waists, made of crepe de Chine, yoke of fagoting and corded shirring, large tucked sleeves, stock collar.

Imported Novelty Waists ranging from $18.49 to $54.79.

Silk Petticoats.

Real artists designed them—men and women who have the knack of conjuring silk and lace and embroidery into beauty-forms. In spite of the originality and deftly executed intricate needlework you'll find the prices moderate—amazingly low—when compared with what other stores ask for similar styles and qualities.

$11.49—Petticoats, made of heavy taffeta, enhanced with accordion plaiting and ruches.

$14.94—Petticoats, made of heavy taffeta, elaborately trimmed with tucks and lace.

Decorated Dinner Sets.—Basement.

Varieties—Values. Most of you know the unrivalled Macy standard. It was established nearly half a century ago, and has been persistently and consistently maintained. The facts are very plain. No other retail store in the world possesses our facilities for owning China; no other store has adopted our original methods for selling it cheaply. So long as such conditions exist our leadership remains unmoled, notwithstanding the statements of competition to the contrary. And we do not depend upon mere words to prove our power. Investigate these. They vindicate every claim.

$5.87 for $7.50 Porcelain Dinner Sets, 102 pieces, pretty blue flower decorations.

$7.47 for $10.00 Porcelain Dinner Sets, 102 pieces, new shapes, green and blue decorations.
